

INTERBANK TO OFFER NO DEFENSE IN LEASE SUIT

Satisfied with Showing Made on Cross-Examination of Prosecution's Witnesses, It Is Said—Justice Scott Is Sarcastic with Isidor Wormser, Jr.'s, Counsel.

At the Metropolitan lease trial to-day Justice Scott told Lawyer Stickney, counsel for Isidor Wormser, Jr., who is trying to break the lease, that he had failed to prove a great many things which he had said he expected to prove. Mr. Stickney wanted to adjourn until tomorrow, but this was denied unless he showed the case for his client. Then Mr. Stickney said he wanted to recall Mr. Ryan, who was not present. "What do you wish to prove by Mr. Ryan? Perhaps we might concede it," said Mr. Guthrie. "I don't know," said Mr. Stickney. "That's just it," rejoined Mr. Guthrie.

"Oh, well, we have proved a great deal more than we expected," retorted Mr. Stickney. It was then Justice Scott made his comment. In anticipation that Albert Stickney, counsel for Isidor Wormser, Jr., in his suit to upset the lease of the Metropolitan Street Railway to the Interurban would recall William C. Whitney, that Patrick H. Flynn, the Brooklyn street railway magnate, would be put on the stand, Justice Scott's court was crowded to-day.

Double Flank Movement. The flank movement of Mr. Stickney by which he made the masters of the Metropolitan, the bankers who underwrote the scheme and the manipulators of the whole project witnesses for Wormser, has been met by a counter movement by W. G. Guthrie, in cross-examination of his friends, turned them all to good account and it was said to-day that no defense would be offered. The case will be left with Justice Scott on the evidence presented by Mr. Stickney plus that adduced by Mr. Guthrie in cross-examination.

The testimony of William C. Whitney, whose brain conceived and executed the plan of bringing all the street railway traffic of Manhattan Borough under one management, as the Metropolitan system, bore one plaintive strain.

Might Have Bought the "L." "But for obstacles like this suit of Mr. Wormser and others, the Interurban might have become the owner of the Manhattan Elevated system, and adding it to and combining it with the surface lines, have given Manhattan a perfect system of transportation."

Instead, while the Interurban-Metropolitan was forced to devote all its energies to self-defense, and capital was held aloof from its enterprises by the element of doubt, the transit situation in Manhattan and the Bronx, with a foot opening in Brooklyn through the East River tunnel.

The stenographer said at the beginning of the fourth day of the trial, that he had received seventy-five exhibits and taken 130,000 words of testimony.

Louis A. Heineheimer, of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., was recalled. He identified a list of those interested in the syndicate to which was added the Metropolitan Securities stock. He explained to Justice Scott that $1,000,000 of the stock was sold to the Metropolitan Securities Company, which included the $300,000 paid to the Morton Trust Company for its securities.

Mr. Heineheimer was recalled. Mr. Guthrie questioned him about the expenditures for construction as shown in the fiscal report of the Metropolitan Railway Company. A hot discussion was raised by Justice Scott.

COURT FIGHT FOR $250,000

Relatives of Rich Widow to Contest Will Which Gives Her Big Estate to Two of Her Friends.

(Special to The Evening World.)

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., June 18.—There is going to be a bitter contest over the will of Mrs. Alice Armstrong, the rich widow and descendant of Lord Armstrong, who fell down stairs several weeks ago and died from a fractured skull. Mrs. Armstrong left an estate estimated at $250,000, including tenement houses in Manhattan, railroad bonds and stocks, the latter having just been discovered hidden away in a strong box in a safe deposit vault.

A will, made ten years ago, was found in her home at Mount Vernon, giving her property to her niece in Manhattan and several other relatives, but a signature, it was claimed, had been cut out of the document by some one.

To-day another will was filed, in which the widow bequeaths her estate to Eva Bradley and Georgina Bradley, granddaughters of her husband, and her nieces or nephews. The will, which covers one sheet of foolscap, contains a clause, which says:

"I give $1 to any relative that may put in a claim for my estate."

The will is dated Feb. 18, 1902. Mrs. Armstrong's niece, Miss Dora Thompson, who is a nurse in the First Reserve Hospital, and her brother, John Thompson, of Cold Spring, have engaged Assistant District Attorney A. H. Zeigler, of Newburgh, to contest the will.

Three other lawyers will also fight for the fortune in behalf of other relatives.

British Want Him to Study Racial Conditions in South Africa, but He Will Hardly Accept.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—Booker T. Washington called upon President Roosevelt to-day to consult with him concerning his acceptance of another he received recently from Lord Gray, of British Southern African Company. The company desires Prof. Washington to visit South Africa and make a study of racial conditions in British territory and report to the company and to the British Government his plans for the better industrial, educational and moral conditions of the people.

Prof. Washington would be absent on the mission about six months. It is reported, likely he will accept the offer, as influential friends have urged that it would keep him away from his work in this country too long.

Called a Female Bluebeard. BERLIN, June 18.—The trial of a so-called "female Bluebeard," Frau Przygodna, began at Allenstein, East Prussia, near the Russian frontier, to-day. Her first husband, Przygodna, a hotel-keeper, claimed he caught her putting arsenic in his coffee. He said that her other husbands, all prosperous peasants, died suddenly. The authorities examined their bodies and found arsenic in each of them.

LITTLE LIFE IN STOCK MARKET BEARS GET GOOD GRIP ON COTTON

July the Centre of Attack in Metropolitan, Steel, Pennsylvania and Gould Issues Got Most of the Attention in Bull Trading, with Prices Off.

There was little life in the stock market to-day, trading falling off after a brief buying spell in the early dealings, and prices sagging through sheer dullness. All the business was professional, values as the session advanced being influenced in no way by outside factors. The list showed fractional losses on the day.

Metropolitan Steel, Pennsylvania and the Gould issues attracted most of the attention on the Exchange. The trading in these issues was active, the court proceedings affecting the Steel was weak on fears that the annual circular of selling prices expected would show some important reductions in comparison with last year. Pennsylvania and the Gould stocks were favored by the reports that the Cassatt issue was being declared that conditions in the dispute remained unchanged.

DR. LOVE FELL DEAD ON LINER

Noted Physician Stricken with Apoplexy in the Dining Saloon Just as the Aurania Is Coming Into Port.

ABOUT TO MAKE A SPEECH.

Other Passengers Were Applauding Him and He Was Smiling When He Suddenly Fell to the Floor and Died Instantly.

Dr. Isaac N. Love, the noted physician and writer on medical topics, dropped dead in the dining saloon of the Cunard liner Aurania as she was steaming through the upper bay, bound in, to-day. The eighty-nine cabin passengers and the officers of the ship were in the room when Dr. Love was stricken. He died instantly.

The voyage had been so pleasant that the passengers got together yesterday and appointed a committee of five to prepare resolutions of commendation to be presented to the officers and crew. Dr. Love was chairman of the committee. Other members were Rev. Dr. Horsfield, Mr. McCall and Mr. F. A. Murphy.

Dr. Love had been the life of the ship since her departure from Liverpool. In conversation with other passengers he expressed the opinion that the trip had added ten years to his life, although it had been a trip under pressure. He went abroad about three weeks ago in attendance upon Mrs. George Law, who had not fully recovered from the effects of an operation for appendicitis performed by Dr. Love.

By unanimous consent he was chosen to make the speech of presentation of the resolutions. He had arisen from his seat to make this speech and stood smiling while his fellow passengers clapped their hands in applause. Before he could speak he clapped his hands to his head and fell to the floor. Dr. Billard, the ship's surgeon, was seated next to Dr. Love and pronounced the noted physician dead as soon as he touched him.

Body Taken to Pier. The body was taken from the ship at the pier and held there to await instructions from the widow and children of Dr. Love. Officers of the ship notified the police and the Coroner. Many of the passengers remained on the pier in order to be of service to Dr. Love's family should assistance be required.

The trip that ended so tragically was taken by Dr. Love because of the importunities of Mrs. Law, upon whom he had performed a difficult operation for appendicitis. When she determined to go to Paris she had not fully recovered her strength and feared that the sea would do her harm. At her request Dr. Love sailed with her, to be on hand in case her condition should take a serious turn.

After seeing his patient safely in her home in Paris Dr. Love hastened back to take up his duties of his profession in New York. Apparently the tour had done him good. He was the picture of health up to the moment he was stricken down.

Well Known in His Profession. Dr. Love was fifty-five years of age and was known to the medical profession throughout the country as a physician of skill and learning. Although he had been in New York for some years he had taken a place in the front rank. As an expert diagnostician he had few equals and he was frequently called into consultation by the leading lights in New York medicine.

Born in St. Louis, Dr. Love was left an orphan when a child. He was taken into the home of his mother, Dr. Hodges, one of the best physicians in the West, and under Dr. Hodges he got the preliminary training in his profession. For more than thirty years he was in the active practice of medicine.

The Evening World a statement on which he brought with him a publication of which he was editor, entitled the Medical Mirror. The publication was established at No. 337 Fifth avenue.

It did not take Dr. Love long to stamp his personality upon this city. He was a man of ideas. His services were in demand from the start as a lecturer and a writer. He was a man of great energy and had a fund of anecdote.

As a story-teller he had few equals. His circle of friends and admirers was large and he was a man of great energy and had a fund of anecdote.

It was said of him that his presence had a tonic effect on his patients. He entered a room and his patients were reassured. He had a way of persuading a man or woman near the point of death that nothing in particular was the matter.

Specialist in Tuberculosis. He was a specialist in tuberculosis, having the record for some remarkable cures. He was a man of great energy and had a fund of anecdote.

He had the distinction of curing a nephew of Dr. Koch, the inventor of the tuberculin, of consumption. He made a study of the science of hygiene and if he had a fact it was for wholesome living. He was a man of great energy and had a fund of anecdote.

Many Persons Attended the Funeral. Services at Royal Arcanum Lodge, No. 246.

Funeral services were said to-day for Charles S. McFarlane, former superintendent of the Anti-Police Society, who was murdered in the Criminal Courts Building on Monday. The ceremony took place in the rooms of Royal Arcanum Lodge, No. 246, in the Masonic Temple, at Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue.

Six hundred fellow Masons of the lodge attended the services. Among those present were Capt. F. Norton Goldard, Chief County Detective, and several other officials from the District Attorney's office. The interment took place in the Lutheran Cemetery.

WILLIAM BROADBELL FAILS FOR MORE THAN A MILLION

Staten Island Real Estate Dealer and Builder, Who Conducted Extensive Operations, Is Adjudged a Bankrupt in the United States Court.

William J. Broadbent, well-known real estate dealer and builder, of West Brighton, S. I., has been adjudged a bankrupt upon his own petition by Judge Thomas, of the United States District Court.

Broadbent's liabilities are given as $1,254,811. His assets include over one hundred pieces of real estate in Manhattan and real estate at Oceanside, N. Y., valued at $20,000 and mortgaged for $14,000. There are secured claims amounting to $1,212,844, some of them held by the New York, German, United States and Washington Life Insurance Companies, the Baron de Hirsch fund and the trustees of the Peabody Educational Company.

Associated with Mr. Broadbent in his real estate enterprises during the last three years has been his wife, Geraldine, who is a clever, pretty woman, only twenty-five years old. Mr. and Mrs. Broadbent have been married seven years and have one child, a bright little girl. Three years ago Mrs. Broadbent conceived the idea of building two seven-story apartment structures and a row of eleven five-story limestone and brick dwellings. The dwellings were built on One Hundred and Seventeenth street just west of Lenox avenue, and the apartment-houses in One Hundred and Fifteenth street near Broadway.

She succeeded in borrowing money for these enterprises from Jacob L. Butler and Russell Sage. Nothing in the bankruptcy petition intimates any connection with the failure of her husband's business.

Frederick Kurlman, of Kurlman & Frankenhelm, No. 25 Broad street, counsel for Mr. Broadbent, says Mrs. Broadbent is not financially interested with her husband in any of his real estate projects.

"THE DUSTY MILLER" And White Bread. Most millers are bitter enemies of Grape-Nuts for business reasons, for Grape-Nuts food is largely replacing white bread for Grape-Nuts contains the whole of the health-giving grains while the patent white flour in universal use to-day is made with the most healthful part of the wheat left out.

A miller of Newark, Ohio, who has studied the subject, says of Grape-Nuts: "I began by using the food once a day, then twice a day and for the last six months three times a day, and I confidently affirm that I have received more real substantial benefit from the use of Grape-Nuts than from all the other things I have tried. My trouble was indigestion and kidney disease."

"I began to receive relief at once, and as I am a practical millwright and miller as well I can see and understand the philosophy of such a nutriment as Grape-Nuts, and why its use gives us such good results. The continued use of patent flour bread will produce injury sooner or later because the true life-sustaining and life-giving elements of the wheat berry are eliminated in the manufacture of patent flour."

"My unasked-for advice to all is to use daily a nutriment like Grape-Nuts that retains all the vitality of the grain. For the very reason there is more direct virtue in the daily use of Grape-Nuts than in all the medicinal tonics in the world that crowd to overflowing the shelves of drug stores."

"The restaurant where I take my meals keeps Grape-Nuts on hand to accommodate me and others who eat to live and enjoy life and health." Name furnished by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Grape-Nuts can be served in a variety of ways—from plain breakfast food to the novel and delicious Grape-Nuts Ice-Cream. See the little recipe-book in each package.
